the major problems the world faces have increased since the turn of the millennium recurrent storms on the financial markets have ravaged many countries poverty is still widespread notwithstanding decades of massive development aid the environment remains in acute jeopardy and the major world institutions have often reached an impasse in attempting to combat these difficulties the issues ask for rapid and consistent action by policy makers but the interests of international organizations such as the wto world bank and kyoto protocol have become too diversified to come to multilateral agreements setting uniform rules and asking for strict compliance with these rules alternative solutions are sought and development in the future is likely to be characterized by fuzzy and complex interactions between flexible groups of actors seeking agreements on the solutions for the most pressing new problems progress will become rather unpredictable and will depend on time place and subject specific cases as well as convergence of interests this need not be only negative flexible solutions have the advantage that they can be easily adapted in case the conditions change in this new book the follow up to his global economic institutions willem molle maps out the unfolding of this process in the course of its development the eu has had to deal with an expanding policy agenda covering ever more subjects and an increased diversity of instruments it has also had to deal with an increased number of member states and an extended range of partners regional authorities non governmental organisations these developments have greatly increased the risk of inconsistencies between the various policies pursued and between the various levels of competence for the same policy inconsistent policies are less effective than they ought to be so they imply a welfare loss the eu has tried to cope with the challenge of consistency by adapting its governance traditionally it uses mainly the regulatory method the effectiveness of this method has recently come into question so alternative methods are now favoured one is the financial method which implies more expenditure via the eu budget the other is coordination the application of both methods has certain advantages and disadvantages the problem for policy makers is then to determine the choice between the modes first and the optimal level of budgetary and coordination efforts next notwithstanding its obvious policy relevance the problem has got little attention from academia this book sets out to contribute to a solution by following two approaches the first is a systematisation of the theoretical and conceptual underpinnings of the financial and coordination methods the second is an empirical investigation into a range of european policy processes implying to different degrees budgetary outlays and coordination
